FIRST FARMERS' INSTITUTE MEETING

Interesting Talks Given by Local Men

Another Meeting to be Held Next Saturday, Nov. 21st

The first Farmers Institute meeting held in Gleichen last Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Gleichen District Agricultural Association not only proved another interesting department of this useful society but it was an eye-opener to most of those present as regards the ability of our farmers as public speakers. For fear that some may say we are joking the speakers we will not designate them as orators, but we say in all earnestness that as a whole the speakers were somewhat above the average and we honestly believe their straight-forward talks of every day work with their fellow farmers and neighbors was of more direct and lasting benefit than professional speakers on these topics could hope for. They talked of subjects that were of the deepest concern to themselves and the community, and of the things they have to contend with in this particular district, showing by actual work and demonstration how and why one method of growing a grain or vegetable is better than another method. These are the things that is most desirable to be known by all and especially the latest arrivals in these parts.

Vice-Pres. John D. Joe occupied the chair and in a few well chosen words called the meeting to order explained the objects of the meeting, after which he called as the first speaker Mr. John Buckley.

Mr. Buckley said he was not a farmer nor did he claim to be even a practical man, but by following the advice and example of his neighbors he had succeeded in growing some very excellent crops. In Ireland he had been a member of an agricultural society and at some length explained the object and workings of the society as he had seen it. He said the main object was to help the farmer in digging up his resources, bringing them in sympathy with each other and thereby learning from each other. He strongly urged those present to attend all the meetings and bring their neighbors along with them. He thought it the greatest advantage to new settlers and helped materially and socially. He hoped in future many questions would be asked and answered at these meetings and all would organize to protect their own interests. He believed implement manufacturers charged too much for their machinery and while he did not blame local dealers he thought the farmers might find a way to keep down the prices. The farmers and ranchers should organize to get the best price for their cattle and he favored the establishment of an abattoir in Gleichen. He believed they could unite and get many advantages from the government and he greatly favored plowing competitions.

Mr. M. Bollinger read a very interesting paper on the planting and growing of potatoes, but we will not here give his remarks as The Call hopes to get the paper from him for publication in another issue.

Mr. J. R. Allgood was the next speaker called upon, who said he believed it to be the duty of every farmer to relate his experiences for the advantage of his fellows and, this was his excuse for attempting to speak, he said, although he proved very apt in expressing his views. He believed the old-timers had and could do a great deal more than new men to lessen the burdens for new settlers in giving advice. The possibilities of this country were something wonderful and the longer he stayed here the more satisfied he became, although when he first came some cattlemen had told him nothing could be raised here. He first came here on the 20th of April and found the weather much warmer than it was 1000 miles south. However, this year's crop had realized the highest expectations of everyone and left no doubt as to possibilities. He discussed at some length the growing of alfalfa and showed it to be the greatest of fertilizers. He thought Mr. Bollinger's method of growing potatoes excellent. He thought the charges for flour here an imposition and that a grist mill should be established in Gleichen. He said in the south he got $1 for 100 pounds of wheat and bought flour for $1.60 and could not understand why flour should be $3.50 per hundred here.

Mr. N. N. Hayes thought no man should shrink from his duty to his fellowmen and he would be glad if he could say anything that would help anyone. He quoted authorities to show that agriculture ranked among the highest professions and then urged his hearers to aim to the highest and dip deep into the mysteries. Pioneers he said had not the time necessary to solve all problems, and therefore each one should learn from the others. He thought it an easy problem to work out how 40 acres well tilled would produce more than 80 acres poorly managed. He then gave some interesting facts he had observed regarding soil.

Mr. R. B. Robson was not prepared to make a speech, but heartily endorsed the objects of the association and looked to see it grow and urged all to use their best endeavors in that direction. He had been born and raised and always lived on the farm and hoped to die on the farm. For a general rule he had laid down that the better the soil was worked the better the crop. He then gave a talk on selecting seed of all kinds and raising trees, saying the time was not far distant when apples would be grown here profitably.

Mr. Trego followed and said he had a number of years experience as an implement dealer and he did not believe that the manufactures made as much as the farmers here, considering the capital invested and he believed the farmers could help the dealers by letting them know a year before hand the machinery and repairs they would likely need. He then gave an interesting talk on the marketing of potatoes and other produce.

Mr. Lee was called upon but declined to speak as he had had no time to prepare for it. A hearty vote of thanks for the speakers was then unanimously passed and the meeting adjourned, the chairman urging all to be present next Saturday and bring their friends.

WATER ATTRACTS FROST

A Correspondent to the Calgary Farm and Ranch Review writes as follows:

A rather novel experience came to light a few days since in a potato patch owned by Mr. P. J. Umbrite, near Gleichen, which seems worthy of note. Mr. Umbrite had two separate potato fields planted about the same time. One he thoroughly irrigated, while the other, being pressed for time, he failed to water.

A short time ago he dug the potatoes from the non-irrigated patch, and found quite a portion of them badly bitten by frost, causing considerable loss.

He was not able to dig the other patch at the same time, and before he was ready some very much colder weather occurred.

He supposed all the undug potatoes were ruined, and was about to abandon the harvest of them, but changed his

Best Wheat to Reach Winnipeg Was Shipped From Gleichen

John Buckley got $1.03 for his Spring Wheat

A. J. Campbell informs The Call that he has just received the returns from two carloads of spring wheat he shipped from Gleichen to Winnipeg which the purchasers state grade better than No. 1 Northern and accordingly pay a half cent more for it, which they say is the best grade of wheat received at Winnipeg or Fort William this season. He also struck a good market and received the best price paid. The first car was owned entirely by John C. Buckley for which $1.03 was paid, and the second car was owned by Mr. Buckley and Mr. J. R. Allgood who got $1.02½ per bushel. The wheat was grown on their farms about two and one-half miles directly north of Gleichen.

mind and made an investigation. Judge of his surprise when he found only the few that projected out of the ground frosted, while the rest were in perfect condition, and yielded a good crop of fine potatoes.

He attributes it to there being enough moisture in the soil to take up the frost, and thus draw it away from the potatoes. This may serve as a good example to their root crops.

Rev. Father Van Aken has again started on his way to Holland to bring out more of his good Dutch settlers to this district sometime in March next. The reverend gentleman is certainly a good immigration missionary for this district and The Call wishes him every success in all his undertakings. He left a little before he had intended owing to receiving a wire calling him to attend as a delegate the first American Catholic Missionary Congress in Chicago, which was held in that city from Sunday until yesterday. The congress is a very important one as over seventy-five archbishops, bishops and abbots met there from Canada and the United States and on Sunday over one hundred sermons were preached in that city by delegates at the same hour. The program provided for Tuesday evening the subject, "Emigration to Western Canada," and this is where Rev. Father Van Aken would get in his good work for this district and we may be sure that he would do it full justice. This information has been kindly supplied The Call by Father Van Aken's brother, Christopher Van Aken of the Akenstad Colony, near Strathmore.

D. B. McNeil arrived from Vancouver last week and has since been shaking hands with his numerous old friends, who are delighted to see him once more, after an absence of over a year. Mr. McNeil ranches for many years in this district and later carried on the general store business now conducted by F. K. McKay. He is still owner of considerable town property here and has great faith in the future of Gleichen. Since he left here last he sold a number of his lots and was very much pleased to note the substantial buildings erected upon them, including The Call block, Sarnia Livery Stables and J. B. Leggat's block. He also expressed himself as somewhat surprised at the number of excellent buildings that have been erected during his absence. He will probably spend another week in town looking after his interests here.

It is about time to get busy on the agricultural college. Those irrigated potatoes of Mr. Bollinger's and the wheat of Messrs. Buckley and Allgood's should help some.

The Rocky mountains look close these days, but stranger, don't start to see them without a lunch in your pocket.

The editor of the Calgary News was fined $100 in liable suit brought by the editor of the Eye Opener, but the later got a severe raking over from the judge and jury and each editor was told to pay their own costs. The case has been appealed and in the meantime the public is wondering who really got the best of judgment so far.

A very interesting meeting of the Agricultural Association was held last Thursday evening when it was decided to hold the annual election of officers and directors on Dec. 4th. It was also determined to hold two Farmers' Institute meetings, one of which was held last Saturday and the other will be held at 2.30 next Saturday afternoon.

W. PARK EVANS,

Gleichen, Alberta, November 19, 1908.

Gleichen's councillors for 1909 should be men of business ability who can and will devote the necessary time to make Gleichen known for its enterprise and thrift. So far the town has jogged along on a fairly even keel, but the time is at hand when she should be pushed and shoved along at every turn, and the foundation laid not for a town, but for the real live bustling city that she is destined in the very near future to be.

Gleichen has got to get out of the rut in 1909 of just doing the necessary things —opportunities are crowding her forward in each and every direction. We will have to look ahead and prepare for the advances that the crop of the past season has emphasized so emphatically are at hand.

To prepare for this we must have the right men in office to guide our municipal affairs. Men with vim, who will show careful enterprise in keeping the town abreast of the times.

Who are they? Name them early and let them tell the citizens right out loud what their platforms for 1909 will be and how they propose to carry out their plans if elected.

In making these remarks we do not desire to reflect or say anything against the present or past administrators of our town. They have done what they could under the circumstances, but with the bumper crops of this season a new era has dawned for this town, and with a new and greater Gleichen we must prepare to live up to our opportunities.

As the Foresters are making arrangements to offer special inducements for good companies to come here. This town has now reached a population that guarantees a fair-sized company a profit and being conveniently situated between Medicine Hat and Calgary there is reason to expect that some of the very best entertainers will find it advantageous to stop here quite frequently. For an example we may take the Schenbert Symphony Club which will appear in Gleichen next Wednesday night. The manager stated to The Call that while his company looked for the larger towns they found Gleichen a very convenient point. On this trip his company had a night to spare between dates at Medicine Hat and Calgary and while they did not expect to make a big profit here they would meet expenses and give Gleichen just as good an entertainment as they would give in any of the larger towns or cities. Thus it is seen that we may at least get some good treats in Gleichen from the best companies travelling in the west.

There has been a bet offering around town for the past couple of weeks that on November 1st, 1909, the population of Gleichen town will be double what it was Nov. 1st, 1908. So far no person has been found to take the bet—watch Gleichen grow.

Will someone please explain why the immense straw stacks burned in this district every fall should not be manufactured into paper pulp right in Gleichen? Think it over farmers. Your straw is worth $4 a ton for paper and you are burning it up every year.

Some of our ranchers are now wondering why they did not make their fortunes years ago by tilling the soil, but in those days they thought this would never be a farming country.

Mr. Bollinger says that he produced this year between one third and one-half more potatoes on the ground he irrigated than on the adjoining land without irrigation. This is worth remembering.

Don't forget about the French-Canadian colony north of us. It won't be so very long until you will be taking an electric tram to see them.

On the best authority The Call has it that next spring the C. P. R. will build a railroad from a point between Cheadle and Strathmore north to Kucie Hill and Red Deer river.

Well, I should say it does! Last week a Belmont merchant advertised fresh dairy butter for sale. The compositor substituted an "h" for a "d" and the ad read "Fresh Hairy Butter for Sale." A smart barber called up the grocer and offered to shave the butter at standard rates. The grocer got mad and licked the barber, breaking his nose and otherwise disfiguring him so that he was compelled to call up the doctor, who charged him a tenner for services rendered. The next day the barber met the editor on the street and threw a brick at him, giving him a close shave. In his effort to get away the pen pusher fell down, tearing his trousers on the west side so badly that he was necessitated to buy a new pair, also the editorial shears, which were in his hip pocket, penetrated his anatomy so that the services of a surgeon were required.
And all the result of one little ad. Who asked, "Does it pay to advertise?"— Exchange.

Willow Grove Dairy For Sale

I have resolved to sell out in order to get my children nearer school and will offer my Dairy business as a going concern consisting of 12 Dairy Cows and Heifers, 6 or 7 of these cows are due to calve between now and February: 1 Registered Bull, 1 Magnet Cream Separator nearly new, 600 lbs. per hour capacity, Cream Bottles, Dairy Ware, Etc.

Also may be included, if desired, a number of early hatched Pullets, all white birds, pure bred W. P. Rock hens and pure bred white Leghorns, bred from the best layers I could get, some of them fit to win, also Incubator and Brooder.

The above will be sold to remove from the place, and is a living in itself. The butter, cream, eggs, etc., are all sold to regular customers, who are the most particular people.

I sell more butter and farm produce to regular customers than any one else around, and I am always crowded to meet the demand. I did not compete at the fair for butter because some one would have been 2 lbs. short. Would like to sell to some one who can make first-class butter as my old customers who have stayed with me so long are entitled to some consideration. It can be arranged for the cows to stay a while, until the buyer can arrange accommodation. I have also several tons of mangels and an abundance of hay.

Have also for sale separate, 10 of this year's calves; 1 steer coming three; a pair or Clyde colts coming three, horse and filly, very gentle; 1 saddle horse, and a lot of other useful material.

My homestead will also be offered for sale, water front. 50 or 60 acres of the best land can be irrigated direct from stream at small expense, independent of the irrigation company. Will consider a proposition to rent on shares.

I live about 12 miles from Gleichen in a straight line N. E. Address letters to

Now it is quite impossible to tell you all about our goods so if you will come we will show you that we can furnish your home complete whether you are a laborer or a capitalist.

TROUBLE!

Of course there's trouble, Trouble every day, but it seems to us that the most troublesome time of all is the time one has to put in waiting on other people to get a store ready, and no doubt if one were talking to our good old host of the Larkin Block he would tell them of all kinds of trouble. However, we must ask our friends and acquaintances to bear with us a little longer. No, the store is not ready yet, and as yet we are unable to advise you as to the date of our opening day, but you know the old adage and we shall try to repay you for waiting. Just watch this space for another issue and we promise to have some important matter for your perusal.

Not long ago someone sent William Whyte, second Vice President of the C. P. R., a copy of The Call and he at once became a subscriber, remarking that it was the best means he knew of to keep informed of the progress of this district.

An ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness.

A few instances have been reported of farmers having frozen potatoes this fall, but so far as The Call can learn these farmers admit it to be their own fault in leaving them in the ground long after the potatoes were ripe.

The voice should be the sounding-board of the soul.
